Fixed by reverting d79d715f

Pushed to beta and should be updated tomorrow. Only single imageviewer was affected. Use 2way or 3viewers as workaround today.

Scott,

Sargis said d79d715f was added for you to speed up the loading. This caused this issue, so I have reverted it. A different solution will need to be worked out.

OK. I don't remember what this was about

No worry, then. It was to disable ace and particle picking memo options that allow choice of a specific run or template. The idea was that it reduces the viewer loading time when a session was selected.

Close the issue.
Is there a way to only load the particles etc. if you actually want a specific ctf or picking run? That was we could avoid these long delays when starting the viewer?
